Elaine,

What you have written is a lie. You did not even try to call my cell phone. I was in the operating room when Julie called and when you sent a text message. My case took a little over three hours.

So because I did not answer Julie's call while operating and did not respond to a text message you decided to call the commander of Joint Base Langley Eustis and the the Hospital Commander all without even calling my cell phone!

You are out of control!

You have put my job, career and retirement at jeopardy because I did not return Julie's phone all or your text.

Now you are accusing me of having an affair with another physician in my clinic knowing that I have a supervisory role over her as the medical director. Have you made these accusations to someone in the military?

I am more than happy to have you meet Dr. Baxter and her husband Corey.

My comments to you about Carmen were not at all based upon the text messages... I had not seen those.

But I now understand why you were so ugly to me this morning when I asked about Carmen... Btw, this is exactly the way you were with Samara, and every other lie you have ever told me. Your first response is to attack me... that is it my fault

I am sickened by all of this.

I was up until 2:00 am, and then got up this morning at five, and moved dogs around... all in the pouring rain. In between vomiting and every other thing, I cleaned runs, cleaned crates, washed bedding, replaced tarps, and did the thousand on one things I do every day. I still felt horrible, but I did what I had to do for these animals, same as I have done for 15 years now, since you bought Lexi.

At one point I got a text from Julie reminding me that the taxes were due today and I asked you to take care of it. I then called Julie to follow up and told her she should call you, but that I would do everything possible at this end to help, even though I still felt horrible.

phone bill. or you had your phone off (like you say you do about 90% of the time), I tried calling every number I had. I got the run around from absolutely everyone for over an hour. I called over thirty phone numbers... at one point I was told to look on line. You are not listed online at the base. I was even told to fill out an online form and they would get back to me within ten days. They said you were not in the directory. It seemed that you did not exist. People were rude, nasty, stupid and everything but professional.

Eventually I got to John Allen's office and then over to the hospital and Wayne and then JoAnn. After an hour, what had started with, "I am trying to reach my husband" had become, "I need to get a hold of him now. SO, if he is not in surgery could you have him call me." Along the way someone mention you and Carmen and that triggered the memory of your fanatic need to rush to her defense, which is something you have never done for me. At that point I felt like I'd been punched. There are a flood of memories of all the lies you have told and all the ugly things you have done. And then when you called me a nasty bitch for asking about her, it confirmed everything.

At no time did I expect the ugliness that happened today.

It is very upsetting to me to hear you react with such ugliness and anger, when I have done nothing wrong. It is clear you are doing exactly what you did with Samara...

And this is not about "my bad conduct" because you were in the OR. the fact that you are trying to describe it that way shows me how utterly hopeless any of this is.

Every adult knows that taxes are due April 15th. You blew that off, and then ignored filing for months, while you obsessed about yourself, your sports, your over eating, the horses and all the rest. You ignore me, my life, our marriage, how I live, you ignore the taxes, you ignore everything except the whim of the moment.

You know for a fact that we are not deserving of eight losses in a row, and that if the IRS takes a second look at this, you will owe for back taxes as well as 2013. That did not seem as important as college football and standing in the barn with drunk George, while blowing off the last appointment possible to address this.

You put your future in jeopardy the moment you lied to me, and for each and every lie since, and for every thoughtless, ugly selfish abusive thing you have done over the years. You did this... You put your career in jeopardy the moment you broke the law...

You threatened me that if I told the truth about you, you would divorce me. You have threatened me with that for years and used your unethical, immoral and illegal conduct as an excuse to be even more unethical, immoral and abusive. That has made my life a living hell for years and years and years.

I am sick of your threats.
